Partner, Litigation Department

hiroyukihagiwara@paulhastings.com

Hiro Hagiwara is a partner in the Litigation Department of Paul Hastings and based in the firm's Tokyo office. Mr. Hagiwara offers more than 20 years of experience in representing the world's leading technology, automobile and life sciences companies in cross-border disputes, litigations and transactions. Mr. Hagiwara concentrates on complex cross-border matters such as patent infringement actions, IP licensing disputes, Hatch Waxman litigations, and criminal, civil and administrative investigations matters. Early in his career, he worked in-house at the intellectual property department of a major multinational technology company. In private practice, he has litigated a number of IP cases involving complex technologies and legal issues in the U.S. federal courts and the ITC and has represented clients in investigations matters.

Leveraging the rare combination of US litigation training and experience in Japan, Mr. Hagiwara has represented the world's most admired corporations such as Aisin AW, British Telecom, DeNA, Denso, Ebara, Fujitsu, Hitachi, Honda, Linear Technology, Mitsubishi Tanabe Pharma, Motorola, Nippon Paint, Olympus, Ricoh, Sanyo, Senju Pharma and Spansion Japan.

Clients and other independent sources have singled him out as one of the very best in advising Japanese clients in navigating the complex cross-border dispute landscape. One source says Mr. Hagiwara "is admired for his robust approach and is deeply experienced in IP generally and U.S. patent litigation in particular" (Chambers Global 2013). IAM Patent 1000 says of him, "Commercially canny partner Hiroyuki Hagiwara has an exceptional ability to extract the maximum value from his clients' assets" (IAM Patent 1000: 2013 edition). Another source calls Mr. Hagiwara a "Local Disputes Star" (Benchmark Litigation Asia Pacific 2013).
